WHEN LOVE CRACKS

DISPLACED affections always follow when personal interest is put ahead of concern for others. Many incidents have brought this to my attention recently. I cannot help but think of a mother who has been practically pushed out of her own house because a son-in-law wants full possession. The mother and daughter have always been very close, but suddenly with an increase in financial status and with a sense of power, the daughter's husband insists the mother-in-law must go. His wife must choose between her mother and himself. Of course the wife cleaves to her husband, but it has created a nasty situation. What can the mother do? Where can she turn? Why did it happen?

The Scene Suddenly Changed

As I think of this mother I picture her background of love and harmony, in her own home years before, with her daughter and her husband. The home was a haven of love for each other. The welfare of each was the concern of the other. Then the daughter got married. In just a few years the old druggist died. The business was sold and the mother had a home built for

IN the meantime the mother-in-law will have to carry the cross and do it in the spirit of Jesus Christ. She will have to be "persecuted for righteousness sake." Jesus, when He went into the Garden of Gethsemane, still sought a way out. When He came out under armed guard He knew it was God's will. There was no other way. In the case of Jesus, God used the evil of men and turned it to His own service. He took the cross of shame and made it a symbol of glory and victory. So, this mother must take this terrible affront by her daughter and son-in-law and use it to the best of her ability for good. God will fortify her in her time of need if she goes to Him. By all means "pray for those that spitefully use you and persecute you." How hard a thing this is to do but it will keep enmity out of the heart. It is always so easy to hate the person who hates you. But, I believe Jesus is right. His way is the only way.

LIFE is never easy. When age moves in and we really begin to feel old it is that much harder to take blows that are directed at our security. Such things shock the foundations of our living. But, with age, we

A "PASS" ON LIFE'S RAILROAD

THE FARE IS PAID. "For Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that He might bring us to God" (1 Peter 3:18).

IT IS FOR WHOMSOEVER WILL. "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved. . . If thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved" (Romans 10:13, 9).

IT IS THE ONLY TRUE ROAD. "Jesus saith . . . I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by Me" (John 14:6).

IT IS GOOD UNTIL DEATH. "I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day" (2 Timothy 1:12).

IT IS NOT NEGOTIABLE. "As many as received Him (Christ), to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God" (John 1:12, 13).

IT IS YOURS TO RECEIVE NOW. "Behold now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation" (2 Corinthians 6:2). "The gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord" (Romans 6:23).

daughter and son-in-law, who found the going hard in the depression. The arrangement was perfect. The mother had her own section of the house—and, being a wise mother, she left her daughter and son-in-law and the children to themselves. Then, suddenly, like a bomb shell the whole scene changed with an explosion. The mother must go to the aged people's home.

WHY has this happened? It seems to me that personal interest has been fostered by the son-in-law. When such a thing happens, love moves out. What is love? I like what John Oxenham says, "God is Love and Love is God—His first, then yours."

God no longer has a place in the life of the son-in-law. Circumstances have changed for him, and he no longer sees the necessity of God in his life. He has become so completely self-centred that he believes the world revolves about him. The presence of his mother-in-law has become so distasteful to him that he chooses to spend time away from his wife and children in order to be away from the mother-in-law. It appears to me that he has become involved, somehow or other, and is using the mother-in-law as an escape ghost. He needs a renewing experience of the Salvation of God.

Into the Hearts of Lowly Outcasts

I can praise God that The Salvation Army digs down deep into the hearts of lowly outcasts who have become so because of similar situations. When the place of God in their lives is lost, usually they begin the downward trend by drinking, by a sense of independence from loved ones, and by a feeling of self-importance which leads to the scrap-heap. I fear for the man in this case. I do not believe that the going of the mother-in-law will solve the basic problem involved.

ACCORDING TO FAITH

HAST thou faith? According to your faith be it unto you. In "Pilgrim's Progress," when Christian came to a river which lay between him and the Golden Gate, he asked the man by the waters, if they were all of a depth.

"No!" answered the guide. "You shall find them deeper or shallower, as you believe in the King of the place."

should feel the security that God offers us. "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for Thou (Lord) art with me." Take God to your comfort, and rest in the faith that somehow the solution will come.

Shafts of Light

Every night of sorrow carries in its dark bosom its own lamp of comfort.

The more joy you can bring to others, the greater are your chances for happiness.

There is no preparation for exceptional duties except that which a man puts into his daily work.

The laboratory of God's grace will change crosses into crowns and sorrows into songs.

The momentous point in our history is not the date of our birth, but when we were reborn.

The world estimates a man's worth by what he leaves behind. The angels judge us by what we send on before.

DAILY STRENGTH for DAILY NEEDS

Helpful Portions From the Bible and Song Book

SUNDAY: For I reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us.—Rom. 8:18.

Paul has weighed the pain and suffering of to-day against the glories of the future. Then with sure confidence he steels us to endure the present pain by a vision of the future.

I left behind me the dark and troubled valley,

I took the Glory Way and found Him there.—G. N. Crowell.

MONDAY: Thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.—1 Cor. 15:57.

A woman, blind for forty-nine of the fifty years of her life, radiated cheer in the ramshackle house where she lived with a drunken father. When asked how she kept so bright and hopeful, she turned on the phonograph and a tenor voice flooded the room:

*Jesus, Saviour, pilot me
Over life's tempestuous sea.*

TUESDAY: In all these things we are more than conquerors, through Him that loved us.—Rom. 8:37.

Dear Saviour of men, save us from sin; strengthen us in our suffering; gird us in our weakness; and guide us in Thy service.

They climbed the steep ascent of Heaven

*Through peril, toil and pain;
O God; to us may grace be given
To follow in their train.*

WEDNESDAY: And straightway they forsook their nets, and followed Him. Mark 1:18.

A Christian scholar has said that the calling of those first four disciples was "the cradle of the Christian Church." When Christ invited Simon and Andrew and James and John to follow Him, there was a response that determined their allegiance for all future time.

*I am only one, but I am one;
I cannot do everything, but I can do something;
What I ought to do, I can do,
And what I can do, by the grace of God,
I will do.*

THURSDAY: Be of good cheer: it is I; be not afraid.—Mark 6:50.

Jesus, the Christ, always appears in the midst of life's storms, whether they are raging at sea or in the human heart. He does not force Himself upon us, but awaits the invitation to enter the boat, or the human heart.

*Just as I am, though tossed about With many a conflict, many a doubt,
Fightings within, and fears without,
O Lamb of God, I come!*

FRIDAY: Abba, Father . . . take away this cup from Me: nevertheless not what I will, but what Thou wilt.—Mark 14:36.

As one faces the will of God, he becomes aware of a heavy responsibility; he is clothed with power. Nothing can stop one who, like Christ, makes a complete dedication to the will of God.

*Have Thine own way, Lord,
Have Thine own way;
Thou art the Potter,
I am the clay.*

SATURDAY: But go your way, tell His disciples and Peter that He goeth before you into Galilee: there shall ye see Him, as He said unto you.—Mark 16:7.

To-day the influence of Christ's personality is reflected in the lives of those who have been transformed by His grace. With His presence

THE TRINITY

A Helpful Explanation of a Marvellous Truth

WHAT a puzzle to some people is the mystery of the Trinity. Because they do not understand the why and wherefore of it, the whole Bible becomes almost fictitious to them.

The question of the Trinity was never a difficulty with me, because I never questioned the Bible's declaration of the fact. I simply believed it. Dr. Godby's illustration of a trinity may help us here. He says, "Water is a trinity—solid in ice, liquid in fluid, and vapor in atmosphere": three different expressions of the same thing. Thus God has expressed Himself in three different personalities, as God the Father, the giver of love; Jesus Christ, the Son, as the gift of love; and the Holy Ghost, the Executive of the will of both Father and Son.

Divine Co-operation

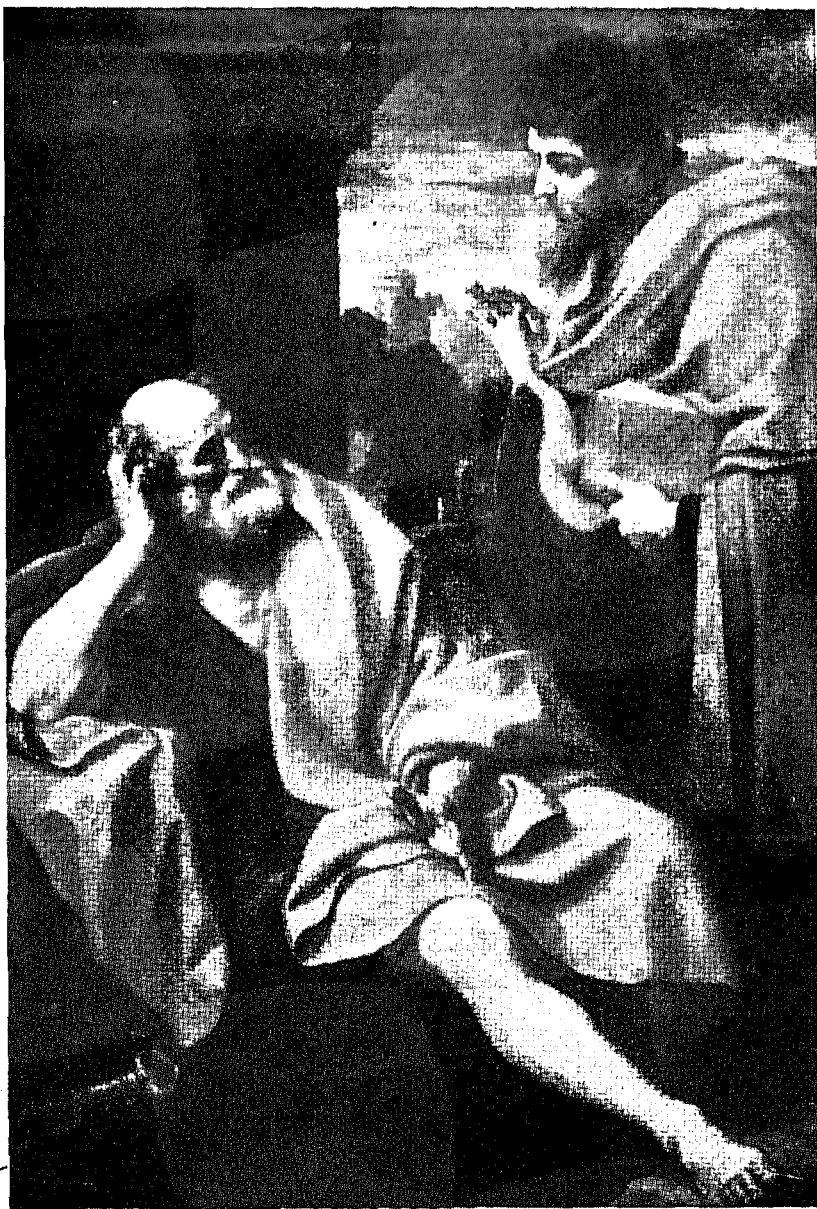

There are instances in the Bible records where all three seem to co-operate and also where two work together, and often where only one is mentioned in connection with the welfare of the human family. Paul in his letter to the Ephesians says: "There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, Who is above all, and through all, and in you all." And in Hebrews we read, "How much more shall the blood of Christ, Who through the eternal Spirit offered Himself without spot, to God, purge your the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by Him, and without Him was not anything made that was made." "Word" is one of the many names given to Jesus in the Bible. Again, in Thessalonians we read: "Now our Lord Jesus Christ Himself, and God, even our Father, which hath loved us, and hath given us everlasting consolation and good hope through grace, comfort your hearts and stablish you in every good word and work." That prayer is being answered to-day in thousands of hearts and homes in every land. Is it being answered in yours?

Then again there are Scriptures which speak only of Jesus and the Holy Spirit, as, for instance, in Corinthians: "Wherefore I give you to understand, that no man speaking by the Spirit of God calleth Jesus accursed; and that no man can say that Jesus is the Lord, but by the Holy Ghost." How much we all owe to the illumination of the third Person in the blessed Trinity!

Elsewhere we read, as in John: "No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, He hath

of all Truth

declared Him." And what a marvellous declaration we have in the best known verse in the Bible: "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

The Work of the Spirit

We have said that the Holy Ghost is the Executive of the Godhead, the One Who carries out His purposes. But does the Bible say so? In the Gospel of John are recorded the words of Jesus Himself, "The Comforter," that is, the Holy Ghost, "will reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment." Thus we see that He convicts sinners of sin. But when He does this it is to lead sinners to repentance and the new birth, as Paul says in writing to Titus: "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to His mercy He saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost, which He shed on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our Saviour."

Again we see that conviction of sin and the new birth are the work of the Holy Spirit, and this, of course, includes the restoration of backsliders.

The Holy Ghost also sanctifies, as in Corinthians we are told: "And such were some of you; but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God."

Elsewhere it says: "Wherefore Jesus also, that He might sanctify the people with His own blood, suffered without the gate." And Paul praying for the Thessalonians said: "And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God that your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. Faithful is He Who calleth you, Who also will do it."

Sanctification Accomplished

So we see that God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost are all interested in the sanctification of believers. Then surely it can be accomplished. Don't you think so?

The Holy Spirit also does another great service for needy humanity. In Romans it says: "Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities"; and we are all greatly conscious of our need in this direction. What a blessing, therefore, that such help is obtainable, and how foolish of us if we do not avail ourselves of His help.

There is another phase of the Holy Spirit's work on which I love to dwell. Jesus promises to send the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, the Strengtheners.

I read somewhere that the word Ghost following the word Holy is an old Saxon word Ghest, which we now spell as Guest. Well, that is the sense in which the Holy Spirit dwells in us, and He is Strength, Comfort, Wisdom, Guidance, and everything else to all who will admit Him into their hearts and lives as the Divine Guest.

CHRIST AND THE INDIVIDUAL

"Go . . . tell His disciples and Peter."—Mark 16:7.

WHY the added words, "and Peter?" Was not Peter among the disciples? Why was he singled out? Probably because Jesus wished him to know that, in spite of his denial, he still counted him among His disciples. There are, however, some deeper meanings to these added words—"and Peter."

God cares for individuals. The universe is vast beyond man's ability to comprehend, but human personality is greater than all else. Millions have lived and now live, but God thinks of them as individuals, not as a mass. Christ is the great, Good Shepherd, who knows His sheep by name. Regimentation is not God's way of saving the race from chaos. He speaks to the individual heart.

"And Peter!" This means also that God meets us at our point of need. At this particular time Peter needed the message direct from Christ that he was forgiven, that he was still among the Master's trusted ones.

Christ is the answer to my every need,

Christ is the answer, He is my Friend indeed;

Problems of life my spirit may assail.

Through Christ my Saviour I shall never fail.

For Christ is the answer to my need.

conscience from dead works to serve the living God!"

In both of these Scriptures we see the Trinity mentioned as co-operating for man's eternal well-being.

What an object of love man must be to the Father, Son and Holy Spirit! And how possible of accomplishment is his Salvation! Most people are familiar with the Apostolic benediction, "The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost, be with you all, Amen." There again we have the Trinity.

But sometimes Scripture mentions only Father and Son, as in John: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and

TRUST IN GOD

(Psalm 46:10)

BE still my heart and wait on God;
So shall I never fear,
Though mountains shake and tempests roar;
Thy help is ever near.

Be still my heart and know that God,
In power still reigns on high;
Though dark the path; though steep the way,
His strength is always nigh.

Be still my heart, the Lord of Hosts,
Himself is at my side,
When sorely tried and bowed with grief,
His aid is not denied.

Be still my heart and trust in Him,
Whose love will far transcend
The struggles of this mortal life—
And never knows an end.

GOD CARES

WE cannot deny or ignore the hard experiences of life—they must come to all of us—but they will be softened wonderfully if we carry in our hearts the sure conviction that God lives and cares.

DEDICATED to a NOBLE PROFESSION

The Chief Secretary Presides at Impressive Windsor Grace Hospital Graduation Exercises

WITH heads held high and eyes shining and excited, the thirty-two nurses of the Graduating Class of Grace Hospital, Windsor, Ont., walked down the long aisle at H.M.C.S. Hunter, used by courtesy of Lieut.-Commander J. W. Loaring, R.C.N., to receive their diplomas and pins. On this, one of the proudest nights of their graduates yet to come from the Hospital.

A unique feature of the program was "The Student Nurse Speaks," in which a group of the under-graduates came from the audience to outline what the training meant to them, what the requirements were and what were the results. One after another, they stressed the Ontario for its thoroughness, the exactness of its training and its quality of instructors. Especially he mentioned Brigadier Brett and Major Barr.

He pointed out how the appreciation of varied things in life could be learned and used to advantage in their profession.

Giving a short hospital report, Dr. Farquhar MacLennan, medical superintendent, mentioned the building of the new north wing, the remodeling of the new laundry and the blood bank, which was started in 1945 as things accomplished during the past year.

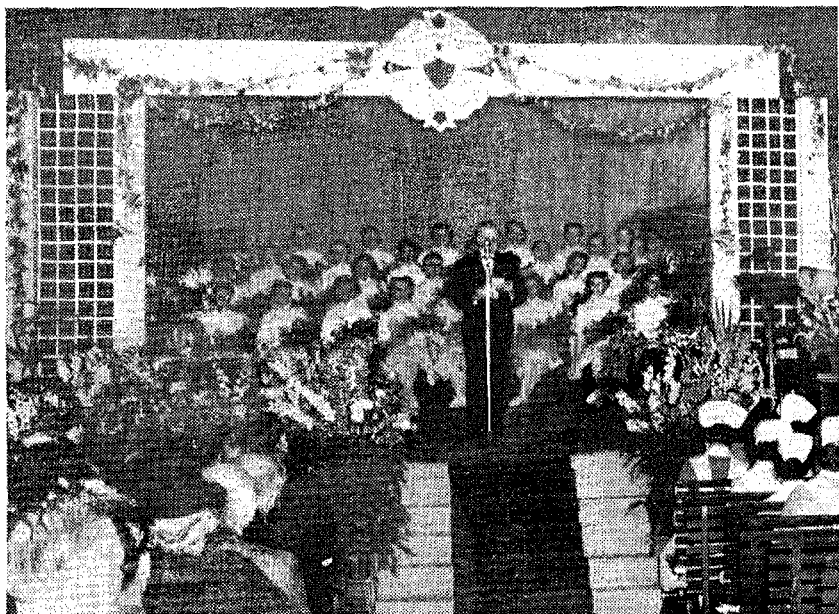

Before the Valedictory address, the presentation of a scholarship from the Grace Hospital Auxiliary was made to Miss Eunice Hickson. One stipulation is that, on completion of the year of graduate studies, the scholarship nurse will return for at least one year to Grace Hospital. A second scholarship was given to the Hospital from the Florence Nightingale Association.

The Graduating Class had a chance for the last time to express their thoughts as a group in the valedictory address given by Nurse Myrtle M. Ludbrook, daughter of Lieut.-Colonel and Mrs. A. Ludbrook, well-known Missionary Officers. A thoughtful address, well done, it paid tribute to the doctors, nurses and all who had helped the graduates on their way.

She declared that the nurse must be objective in her nursing, must develop all her potentialities that she may find satisfaction and happiness in her personal and professional life.

The prayer of dedication was given by the Rev. H. M. Paulin and two vocal selections completed the program. Miss Muriel Manning sang the lovely "Lord's Prayer," and at the close of the evening Songster Mrs. Don Ballantyne and Bandsman Harold Voisey combined their vocal talents.

The Windsor I (Frank Wade) Band provided the music.

lives, every one of them looked a "leading lady" in her shining white uniform, her nurse's cap and the sheaf of scarlet roses she carried in her arms.

Nurses and undergraduate nurses filled the first few rows of the auditorium for the graduation exercises, and the platform above which was a large replica of the class pin, was banked with baskets of spring flowers and ferns.

Impressive in the setting was the traditional Florence Nightingale Pledge, repeated in unison by the graduates standing, while Dr. J. A. Davies read the time-honored words. One of the most thrilling moments for the girls, however, was when it came time for the Women's Social Services Secretary, Lieut.-Colonel Hilda Aldridge, and Major Doris Barr, Assistant Superintendent, to take the centre of the stage for the presentation of the all-important pins. At the same time Dr. Edgar Hutchinson gave them their diplomas as Brigadier Alice Brett, Hospital Superintendent, called their names.

The Rev. W. B. Cunningham offered prayer thus beginning the graduation exercises, followed by a brief Scripture lesson by Dr. R. E. Holmes. The Chief Secretary, Colonel A. Layman, as chairman, offered his congratulations to the staff and the largest group of importance of mental and physical health in all, the need for knowledge of various kinds, and the importance of the nurse herself being an example that others might follow.

"I compliment you on your choice of a profession," Dr. Neil MacDonald told the Graduating Class, approving of their voluntary choice of such rigorous training as they underwent to achieve their objective. He went on to say that Grace Hospital has an enviable place in Brigadier Waterston, in his opening remarks, hoped that the Council might prove to be "A Feast of Fellowship." Five sessions were held during which a thorough survey of present-day Social Service endeavor was made by the delegates.

HOSPITAL EQUIPMENT

Presented to Ottawa Grace Hospital by Rotarians

A HUMIDICRIB, valued at approximately $500, was officially presented recently to Ottawa Grace Hospital by the Rotary Club of the city. Proof of how urgently it was needed was shown by the fact that two hours before the presentation it had been necessary to place a premature baby, weighing two pounds nine ounces, in the new piece of equipment.

The Hospital Superintendent, Major Marion Neill, apologized to Rotary President Dwight L. Donaldson and other Rotarians present for the fact that the humidicrib had been put to use before the official presentation. She was assured that the members were delighted that it had been available when needed.

"We are pleased that The Army gave us the opportunity to be of some little service," Mr. Donaldson said. "We know the splendid work the Hospital is doing for the community."

In reply, Major Neill voiced the gratitude of the hospital for the continued interest of the Club, which gave the Hospital valuable premature ward equipment some years ago. "This new equipment will help us to give the premature babies born here a better chance of survival," she said.

In April the Hospital had a record month for births, 221 babies being born; the total born in the city during the same month, was 490, thus indicating a large proportion was born in The Army's Hospital.

THE ARMY'S NEXT INTERNATIONAL LEADER

"First and Foremost a Program of Evangelism" Affirms the General-Elect, Commissioner Albert Orsborn

SALVATION ARMY history was made on Thursday, May 9, when the High Council of The Salvation Army, assembled at Sunbury Court, near London, during a momentous session, elected one of its forty-seven members, COMMISSIONER ALBERT ORSBORN, as The Army's next General in succession to the retiring International Leader, General Geo. L. Carpenter.

As has already been mentioned in these columns, the General-elect has held his present position as British Commissioner for a period of several years, has had varied commands as a Salvationist leader, and is an experienced evangelist and capable executive. He was converted in his youth and became an Officer from Clapton Congress Hall, London. Appointments include Chief Side Officer at the International Training College, Chief Secretary for New Zealand, and Territorial Commander for Scotland and Ireland. In his present position of British Commissioner the General-elect is also a Director of The Salvation Army Trustee Company and The Salvation Army Assurance Society. Mrs. Orsborn was promoted to Glory in 1945.

As soon as the High Council's decision had been made known by press and radio announcement, there was a general feeling of relief among Salvationists in the Canadian Territory that the tension was at an end, and earnest prayer ascended to God on behalf of the General-elect, who will shortly assume his great and grave responsibilities. The Welcome to the new General has been announced to take place at Westminster Central Hall, on Wednesday, July 3.

STIRRING SCENES AT SUNBURY COURT

The following air-mailed dispatch is a description by Brigadier A. Gilliard of the scene at Sunbury Court on Thursday, May 9, the day when the election took place:

AT two minutes to one on Thursday, the guards standing in the brilliant sunshine in the grounds heard the sound of loud clapping from the Council chamber which had been silent since the balloting began early that morning. At the same moment, Colonel Owen Culshaw was called into the Council chamber and asked by the President to summon the solicitor, Mr. Ernest Frost, and to inform General Carpenter that COMMISSIONER ALBERT ORSBORN had been elected the next General of The Salvation Army. The loud clapping which had been heard was accompanying the greetings to the General-elect by the Chief of the Staff, who was the first to shake the new Leader by the hand.

Within a few minutes the sound of the singing of Colonel Pearson's song, "O Thou God of every nation," with its last verse, "Bless our Army, bless our General," was heard from the Council chamber, and at 1.15 the doors were opened.

Press men and junior Officers who had toiled at their various tasks during the sittings of the High Council hurried out of the sunshine into the soft light of the chamber. On the platform between the President and the Vice-President stood Commissioner Orsborn. High Council Members were filing past the rostrum offering him their congratulations. The atmosphere was tense and yet free from great emotion. A member of the kitchen staff began to clap vociferously. The General-elect said, "That's the cook!" and a smile at her eagerness went round the room.

Lifting a document from the table, Commissioner F. Dyer (President) began to read:

The result of the ballot for the election of a General to succeed General George Carpenter was: Commissioner Albert Orsborn, 36; Commissioner Charles Baugh, 6; Commissioner Catherine Bramwell-Booth, 4.

"Commissioner Albert Orsborn, having received a majority of two-thirds, was duly elected General of The Salvation Army."

Press photographs were then taken amid desultory clapping, after which the General-elect addressed the company. With voice a little tremulous, his face somewhat flushed under the neon lights and eyes telling of the strain of the past few days, he spoke with that bright smile which thousands associate with his opening remarks before he gets into the stride of his addresses.

"Naturally," he said, "I am conscious of the honor which has been placed upon me by my comrades of the High Council. I am not as conscious of the personal honor as I am of the honor as a corporate thing. In this is gathered up the toil and devotion, service and sacrifice of Salvationists of the past and of the present in all parts of the world. I do not look upon this as something to be worn and enjoyed by myself. Rather I would say that I accept it as something to be poured out before God as David poured out the water brought to him from the well at Bethlehem's gate.

"I cannot but remember the mighty line in which I now very humbly take my place, The Founder"—this with a wave of his hand toward the large photograph immediately behind him—"his successors: General Bramwell Booth, General Higgins away in Canada, General Evangeline Booth now in New York, and General Carpenter, who with Mrs. Carpenter, has led The Army through these terrible years of war, in days which could not have been more unpropitious for any Leader.

"My business will be to build the Kingdom of God upon earth. The Salvation Army is a spirit! We must not be over-concerned about the body. We must do all in the power of the Holy Spirit.

"So far as my policy is concerned, more can be said later; but we must make The Army more mobile, more fitted to modern conditions. We must, to coin a slogan in this age of slogans, 'put The Army on wheels and, if necessary, on wings!' We must place central stress on our youth work, and I think it is highly probable that we shall develop an International Youth Department." (This statement was received with suppressed cheers from the junior Officers lining the walls). "We shall give attention to the Social Work, to stressing the equality of opportunity for men and women in the ranks of The Army, and we shall no doubt do much for the women of the world.

But first and foremost will be a program of evangelism. That is our great task; on that we keep our thoughts all the time."

When the General-elect had finished his brief address, some one among the High Council Members struck up "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." This was immediately followed (the chorus-starter again being indistinguishable) by "Praise God, I'm saved!"

As the last line was reached the "Fix bayonets!" order was obeyed. The lifted hands and up-raised faces of the Army leaders provided the Press men who stood crowded in the centre of the floor with an unrehearsed but impressive touch of pageantry.

Emotion now seemed to rise. Some lips were quivering, but a word from the General-elect speedily broke the tension again.

"Seeing we are in Prayer Meeting mood," he said, "What about Lawley's favorite?"

From his place near the rostrum Commissioner Maxwell immediately launched into "We'll journey together," and the whole company was again singing heartily while the Press men scribbled.

Yet another song postscript was added by a voice striking up "We'll never let the old Flag fall." Then the company streamed out into the sunshine and stood talking among the flowers and singing birds.

Just before four o'clock the General-elect was welcomed at International Headquarters by Officers and employees.

"I am depending upon the grace of God and the co-operation of all ranks," he declared in response to enthusiastic greetings.

WITHIN a few hours of the announcement of the election by the High Council of Commissioner A. Orsborn to the Generalship, arrangements were made for him to broadcast a message to the North American Continent.

The broadcast was made from London and carried in America by the Columbia Broadcasting System, enabling large numbers of Canadian listeners to hear the message from the many C.B.S. outlets available to the Dominion. The occasion was also the regular fifteen-minute Salvation Army program over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Introduced briefly by Commissioner E. Pugmire, National Commander for the United States Territories, the General-elect, after acknowledging the grace and goodness of God in his life, lost little time in getting down to essentials. He said that The Army would place its emphasis on its most important activity — the saving of souls.

Road Through the Ruins

The Salvation Army was termed by the speaker as "the bulldozer of evangelism." "It is our business," he said, "not merely to dream about a road for men to travel to the Kingdom of God, but to do something to drive that road through the ruins and desolation of our shaken civilization. It is perhaps appropriate to speak of The Salvation Army as the bulldozer of evangelism.

"The war has made the British people acquainted with this efficient American unit and as I have seen it working upon ruins and straightening things out, I have thought that in the realm of the spirit that is the business of the active forces of God in the world."

The General-elect made a strong plea for youth which, he said, is standing bewildered in the midst of a rapidly changing world. "During my term as leader of our International Movement, I shall call up our people to devote their best attentions to serious, sympathetic and courageous co-operation with youth in the facing and solving of its difficulties."

FIRST PURPOSES

The General Counsels Delegates

PRIOR to the actual business of the High Council, General Carpenter addressed the members on the subject of their solemn obligations, taking as his text, "Ye are the salt of the earth."

The General spoke of his hopes for The Army in days to come and his conception of its work and purpose. He counselled his hearers with great faithfulness concerning first purposes.

Much of the romance of the Mission Field has yet to be written, and the exploits of exploring Salvationists of various nationalities on The Army's frontiers furnish acceptable reading at all times. The accompanying story, written by a leading Salvation Army author, never before published, records stirring missionary incidents in the Netherlands East Indies, and includes mention of such greathearts as Dr. Wille, famed eye specialist (promoted to Glory during the second world war), and many others.

CHAPTER III—BOEGANGAN

THE law of the Netherlands Indies does not permit begging, the police being expected to arrest all beggars and send them to the Colonies provided for them. Often, however, they arrest only those who are unsightly or tiresome. Thus, many beggars arriving at The Army's Colony at Boegangan are either covered with ulcerous sores, suffer from disfiguring diseases, or have been a nuisance to the police.

To thousands of beggars, Boegangan has become the starting point of a life completely new. On arrival, those who are healthy and upon whom are no sores, are sent into the dairy, which provides them with congenial work. Being under Government inspection—as are all dairies in the Netherlands Indies—this industry is kept up to a high standard of efficiency. At the time of my visit it was supplying ninety quarts of milk per day to hotels, hospitals and houses. The herdsmen in charge of the cows was himself a product of the Colony.

Other beggars are set to making coconut matting, orders for which are plentiful and well-paid. In a shed open to cooling breezes sat the blind, the lame and the halt, all happily working at some part of the preparation of the coconut fibre.

In another shed, bamboo was being reduced to the required size and thickness by a company of beggars who would later plait it into the large eight-foot squares of which the sides and partition of nearly all Javanese houses are constructed.

Anything to replace coconut and bamboo as materials suitable for use in an industry for afflicted people would be hard to find.

The men and women do the work in their own way. Machinery might do it more quickly, even better, but the main object on the Colony is not to make mats but to make men. In spite of their great infirmities, these afflicted folk are a happy, humorous and contented company. As they work, they make merry conversation with companies engaged in different parts of the same industry.

The dormitories, each one hundred and eighty feet long by fourteen feet wide, present an interesting picture. Walls of plaited bamboo are supported by teak uprights and teak rafters; red tiles crown the ceilingless roof, and shiny grey tiles cover the floor. Instead of glass windows, wire netting serves the double purpose of letting in the light and keeping out undesirable people, animals and flying insects. Beds on which three men can sleep comfortably economize space, providing accommodation for over a hundred men. Personal possessions hang on the plaited bamboo walls or are kept in large square boxes with brass lock and key. There are mirrors, a Swiss alarm clock, framed pictures; and when darkness falls the dormitory is lit by cheerful electric lights. What a contrast these beautifully clean dormitories are to the beggar hovels from which the inmates have come!

Outside the dormitory is a wide verandah. Here, in the daytime, are to be found the sick and helpless; ingenious contrivances are provided for their assistance. Here, for instance, is a man with a useless leg, the result of elephantiasis; a light framework on which he can support himself as he pushes first one side and then the other, enables him to move about the verandah.

A Love-inspired Task

At the end of this verandah is a dressing room. Here, a European nurse, because of the love she bears her Lord happily spends her days seeking to give relief to beggars afflicted with pestiferous oriental sores, some of which—such as the wounds and unsightly swelling caused by elephantiasis—demand vigilant and patient daily dressing for a year or even longer before yielding to treatment.

Anything from fifty to a hundred patients a day are attended to by the European nurse and her assistants, among these being Javanese, Chinese, Malays and some of mixed parentage. These assistants—men and women—all came as beggars to the Colony. Here they were saved, became Salvationists, attended school, and now give tender and efficient service to sufferers needing daily attention. Quickly and deftly they undo the old dressings and then re-bandage the patients, bringing them ease and comfort.

In a smaller dormitory, containing generously wide but single beds, twelve old ladies, of any age up to an estimated one hundred, have found rest and peace. Blind, bedridden, deaf, dumb—they are happy

THE LITTLE TRIALS

Vexatious and Trouble-bringing

MUCH of the sorrow of life springs from the accumulation, day by day and year by year, of little trials—a letter written in less than courteous terms, a wrangle at the breakfast table over some arrangement of the day, the rudeness of an acquaintance on the way to the city, an unfriendly act on the part of another, a cruel criticism needlessly reported by some meddler, the disobedience of one of your children, a slight by one of your circle, a controversy too hotly conducted.

The trials within this class are innumerable, and consider, not one of them is inevitable, not one of them but might have been spared if we or our brother man had had a grain of kindliness.

because they are secure from want, and receiving loving care such as they have never known before.

In a long room are thirteen small children, in the care of a motherly Javanese woman. Thus early removed from the streets, they will be taught to work instead of being brought up to beg and pilfer, to read and write instead of how to gamble, to know the use of money instead of its abuse. And withal they will hear the story of Jesus, and His love. For these beggar children such a start in life is truly wonderful.

A few steps from this jolly nursery is the day school, where thirty bigger boys and girls are gaining a primary education in two languages, their own and Malay. Visitors are surprised at the intelligence of these children. Sums on the blackboard needing completion by mental effort present no difficulty, correct answers being given readily. They can also sing sweetly, in yet a third language, songs beloved by children in other lands. The alert and capable schoolmaster, fluent in three languages, himself came to the Colony as a little beggar boy.

Dream Castles

BUILDING castles in the air; dreaming dreams. I expect we all do it, from the day our brain begins to function until the day it ceases. Whether it is harmful or helpful depends on the kind of castles we build, the kind of dreams we dream.

Many have spent months, years, maybe a lifetime, building a castle, only to see it crumble in ruins, because it was not built on a firm foundation. Many have wasted valuable time dreaming, only to have their dreams vanish into thin air. The castles that crumble, the dreams that vanish, are not only wasteful of time but are harmful to the builder and dreamer, even to the point of destroying his soul.

As long as life lasts, though, it is not too late to turn to the One who can help us to make castles that will stand the test of time and fill our minds with dreams that will not vanish, leaving nothing but an aching heart and a bitter memory.

I have done my share of building castles, only to see them fall because they were built of material that was not good in the eyes of God. I have had my share of dreams only to see them explode like a bubble because they were dreams of self-interest, self-glorification and lust for the things of this world.

In spite of the fact that I know from a comparatively short fellowship with God, that only in Him can anything lasting be found, dreams that are not worthy still persist in creeping up to the door of my mind and heart. It must be that Satan has not given me up yet. I sup-

PEOPLE AND PLACES PICTORIALLY PRESENTED

DISCLOSED BY THE BLITZ.—Excavations beneath a cellar in Butchery Lane, Canterbury—a blitzed area of London, England—have unearthed a tessellated pavement which has proved to be the most important discovery of Roman remains ever found in the city. The pavement is said to be the floor of a small room of what was an important town house or public building, probably in the third century. The picture shows university students clearing the floor to reveal the central design in colored mosaic within a five foot surround of grey tesserae

OUR SKIN The Useful and Marvellous Functions It Performs

THE only thing that stands between you and a germ-ridden world is about twenty square feet of skin, in thickness from about one 25th of an inch on the eyelids to a quarter inch on the soles of the feet (writes E. McCormick in Colliers).

Your hide is much more than a protective overcoat. It is a tremendously efficient organ. It keeps our temperatures on an even keel; gives warning, through its nerve sentries, of heat, cold, contact or damage; manufactures hair and nails; excretes waste materials; makes the pigment that shields us from the sun; and constantly rebuilds the worn surface layer.

WHAT THE EYE MISSES

WHEN the spokes of a bicycle wheel or the blades of a propeller whirl round, they cannot be distinguished one from another. But a new optical instrument, the Rotascope, will reveal them as if they stood still.

In technical language, this optical system of untwisting the light shed by rotating instruments will make the parts visible in a way never recorded before by the human eye. It makes possible continuous viewing of a rotating object at any point in its path.

The particular value of it is that it does not eliminate any incidental flutter or vibration of the moving part itself, so that the engineer can make a thorough study of the weaknesses or defects when it is in action.

The skin's most vital role is keeping the body at an even temperature.

The surface of the skin is an armor made of overlapping, fish-like scales. Nobody ever invented a better raincoat. The skin is punctured by millions of tiny holes, the pores; yet, because of its oil glands and ingenious structure, you can stay submerged up to your neck for an indefinite time without having your organs waterlogged.

Machine-shop of a Hair

There is also the job of hair manufacture. Nearly all of the body is covered with it, though it is often too fine to be visible. Each hair has a small blood vessel to nourish it and several sacs of oil to lubricate it; a nerve to give the alarm if it is pulled; and a little muscle to draw it up if one is chilled or scared.

The skin also includes about two million tiny oil glands to keep the horny surface from drying out, and numerous elastic fibres to make it fit smoothly. Underneath lie insulating cushions of fat. In old age these tend to disappear, which explains in part why Grandpa grumbles so much about the cold.

In addition, the skin is closely related to the emotions—a fact known to everybody who ever turned red with embarrassment or pale with fright. Minor skin diseases sometimes clear up surprisingly when the patient escapes from an unhappy love affair or finds a satisfying job. Thus the condition of the skin is tied up closely with personal happiness.

Restocking Europe's Libraries

Books For What Were Once the World's Source of Manuscripts

NEVER before in the history of mankind have so many great libraries been destroyed as in this war (says a writer in The Listener, London). In the first World War only one university was totally destroyed. That was Louvain University in Belgium, which was deliberately burned down by the Germans.

This time, in Europe alone, several hundred important libraries have been damaged or destroyed. It is easy to imagine what this loss means to Europe as a centre of culture. Many rare books and original manuscripts will have been lost for ever. It will slow down the work in the schools, in the universities, and in technical and other institutes, for a considerable time. It will even affect the other continents, for Europe has always been the world's main source of books and manuscripts.

Now we are faced with the tremendous task of rebuilding these libraries. It will be a slow business, but it will be done. It is extraordinary how energetic people always are when it comes to building up again what they have pulled down and plans for this are already in full swing.

A host of individual societies and committees have been set up to tackle the job. But to cope with the position as a whole, the Conference of Allied Ministers of Education has set up an Inter-Allied Book Centre and a Books and Periodicals Commission. The Inter-Allied Book Centre has been receiving books from salvage drives throughout Britain, for Britain and for the Continent.

Nearly four hundred thousand books have already been received, and similar salvage drives have now been started in the United States.

SPEEDING-UP THE CABLE

Use of the new plastic material known as Polythene, which has remarkable dielectric properties, is helping to speed up the transmission of telegrams through the submarine cables. It is electrically far better than gutta percha.

A POWERFUL TOMATO

MOST people are familiar with the claim that tomatoes are especially valuable as one of the foods which contain a large number of the Vitamin C, and this vitamin is necessary for good health. But, by improved breeding, tomatoes may be developed which will contain ten times as much of Vitamin C as does the common tomato. So says Dr. F. P. Zschiele, of the University of Chicago. He did not say that such a tomato was yet on the market, but he foretold the possibility of its development.

FEATHERS 'INTO CLOTH

The millions of pounds of chicken and turkey feathers that annually go to waste can now be converted into cloth that looks like wool, but is softer, lighter, and warmer. It should add new profits to the poultry industry. Thirty-eight pounds of feathers are needed to make the cloth for a man's suit. Bed blankets of this material seem likely to appear first.

One of the oldest flowers in cultivation is the pansy, which belongs to the violet family.

FROM MY DESK

A Weekly Message from The Army's International
Leader

GENERAL GEORGE L. CARPENTER

WINNING BY LOVE

THE news that a writer whom I have long loved could scarcely be expected to live much longer made me dwell upon the title he had chosen for one of his most recent contributions to The Army's press. It was a long one, spread in colors across two pages: "God is winning by Love."

Of course I believed it! Most of my life had been devoted to declaring it. Yet, few of the outward signs on a bright spring morning marshalled themselves to substantiate it. There was no evidence of it in the morning news or in the radio bulletins. Another possible rift in international relationships had loomed upon the UNO front. A great military leader bidding farewell to his men had spoken of "more clouds." The best he could say was that they were to trust their Government to "provide the umbrellas."

THE DOOR WAS KEPT OPEN

YET, declared my friend, God is winning by love! It seemed an over-audacious claim until I remembered how God had won the man who yielded that pen.

"Take heart," he counselled his readers, "there is an open door to life here and now, and beyond death to life eternal. No one can shut it."

I remembered how he had spent many years in shutting the door against God. But on the other side was a Hand, constantly opening it again, and at last, in his despairing extremity, this prodigal had walked in.

I remembered, also, the hundreds he had helped through the door. It was true for him, because he had surrendered himself to the truth. That is the secret. When we, each one for himself, break down in penitence before the love of God, we are given custody of the great truth that, no matter what outward appearances or contrary influences seem to cut across our vision, He is winning the world by Love.

THE OBVIOUS NEED

I RECALL the doubts which have begun to assail a friend with great enthusiasm for social programs. He is seeing the approach of the goals which have long been before him: goals of better health, better education, more leisure and improved industrial conditions. "It's been a long road," he now says. "But now we've come a long way I'm not so sure of things! We shall have to do something to change the men and women for whom we have toiled."

That is the obvious need in the eyes of Salvationists. It was so to William Booth, as readers of "In Darkest England and the Way Out" know. And hearts are only touched by love. They can be hardened, dominated, disciplined, terrified, but not changed. "Ordinary folk," we are told, "are driven against one another by forces and organizations and doctrines as wantonly and as remorselessly as they ever were in the ages of absolute emperors and kings." But the changing is constantly going on. Those changes are the victories, often unsung, but real.

NEWS THAT NEVER FAILS TO CHEER

SOMETIMES I look at columns of statistics concerning Salvation Army work, knowing that they can mean little or much. But the news of men and women kneeling in penitence before God never fails to cheer me. It is an indication that here a little and there a little God is winning by love.

MALAYA WAR CRY REAPPEARS

The Army Did Not Die

THE Singapore and Malaya War Cry has made its reappearance, the first copy since December, 1941, being dated March, 1946.

Its opening words state: "It would not be correct to call it the Resurrection Number. Before resurrection there must be death. The Salvation Army in Malaya did not die. It was repressed; its activities were curtailed; its uniform was banned; its meetings were stopped; its institutions were closed down—but The Salvation Army did not die."

Ample evidence is provided in the survey of what was done by Chinese and British Officers. "Sur-reptitious foregatherings supported the Salvation spark."

To-day, six months after deliverance, the Boys' Home (Captain Foo) has in it 200 boys, against a previous maximum of 105. The Women's and Girls' Homes have over 80 inmates. Captain Sim Wee Lee has gone to Kuala Lumpur to open a Boys' Home. Salvation Army Officers have organized relief efforts in Singapore, Penang and Kuala Lumpur: Red Shield Clubs are operating in Singapore (2), Penang and Butterworth.

The issue contains tributes to Chinese friends, the loyalty of the local Salvationists, and to many Officers, including the Chinese Captain Foo Kia Pang, who became a rickshaw coolie to help the wounded and who, when Penang fell, was still cheerfully carrying on, giving no thought to his own safety, but showing himself a servant of all for Christ's sake. Happily, Captain Foo survived and his marriage to Lieutenant Esther Lau is gazetted in this issue.

DEVIL'S ISLAND

A Monument To Man's Cruelty

THE decision of the French Government to close Devil's Island, French Guiana, has met with the approbation of all humane-minded people, and the fact that Major Chas. Pean, who labored among the incarcerated men for many years prior to the war, has been sent, to close the penal settlement, will likewise give satisfaction.

Few modern institutions have served to conjure up such visions of horror and human suffering than the infamous colony. Devil's Island, measured even in the terms of our own outdated prison system, is 200 years behind the times. It is an equatorial cesspool where human beings with human souls were allowed to sink into a mire of cruelty, filth and debasement, whence there was no guarantee of release except through death.

More Than One Island

Devil's Island is actually a misnomer in that there are three islands and a ten-mile strip along the coast of French Guiana which make up the penal colony. Onshore the area is bounded on one side by the Maroni River and on the others by impenetrable swamp and jungle. Offshore the three islands, Devil's, St. Joseph's and Royal, lie in a narrow chain, comprising in the aggregate less than ten acres. The civilian administration staff lives on Royal Island; St. Joseph's was for the incorrigibles and criminally insane; Devil's Island for political prisoners.

Devil's Island itself was the least used and the least terrible of the three. Less than fifty prisoners were held there through the years of the Colony's life. The others, however, were sink-holes of depravity and human indignity, where 52,000 men spent their time in the ninety-two years since the institution was founded. Many of the convicts sent there for specified terms of imprisonment were never released, the local authorities pyramiding their sentences arbitrarily as disciplinary measures. Of the colony's year-round convict population of 5,000, about 1,000 died every year. It was said that virtually every man tried to escape at least twice. Actually 2,000 did break out. But the punishment if caught was terrible.

Symbol of Human Degradation

Devil's Island, that is, the entire colony, is being closed. There are said to be only fifteen prisoners left, and these will go soon, some to finish out their terms in other French prisons. It will be many years, many generations, before Devil's Island becomes forgotten as a symbol of human degradation, a blood and tear-soaked monument to man's incalculable cruelty to his fellow man.

REGENT HALL'S ANNIVERSARY

Reveals International Character of Famous Old Corps

ON Saturday afternoon, March 18, 1882, a great crowd of Salvationists, friends, and a noisy fraction of the skeleton army, stood outside the "Rink," 275 Oxford Street, London, as the Founder and Army Mother consecrated and dedicated the building for God and The Army. That afternoon a very small boy was taken into the Hall by his mother, the wife of Captain Wm. Baugh, the first Commanding Officer of Regent Hall Corps.

Missionary Officers Participate

That boy, now Commissioner Chas. Baugh, the Chief of the Staff, conducted the Corps' sixty-fourth Anniversary. As a tribute to the work of the Corps as a leading missionary centre, Officers representing various countries, including India, Java, Malaya and China, participated in the rejoicings.

"The Hunger and Need of the Soul" was the theme of the morning meeting.

The Chief presided over the afternoon gathering. The Mayor of Holborn, accompanied by the Mayoress, represented the civic authorities of the Metropolis, and spoke of the devotion of West End Salvationists, particularly mentioning the Regent Hall Band for its unflinching performance of duty during the great blitz.

Prebendary Colin Kerr, Vicar of St. Paul's, Portman Square, avowed that he was "a Salvationist who didn't wear a red guernsey," and his words fully established his claim.

The Chief of the Staff gave a comprehensive survey of the endeavors of the Corps, its influence reaching the far-flung outposts of the world.

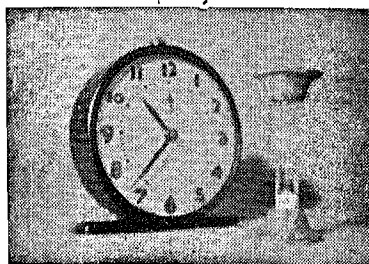

At night, in the presence of a fine crowd, Major Harvey, lately returned from Malaya and showing the marks of harsh treatment in an internment camp, told of the devotion and sacrifice of non-European and European Officers in cruel and dark hours. During the day Brigadier Agnes Kyle spoke of the devotion of a Javanese Salvationist. Mrs. Lieut.-Colonel Walker gave a glimpse of the blessings God had made The Army amongst the peoples of India. During the Chief's address plain truths were set forth. There were ten seekers.

THE ABSENT MEMBER

AT the first Session of the High Council, on Thursday (May 9) the President announced that Lieut.-Commissioner Ernest Harewood (Territorial Commander, Australia East), the only Member of the High Council prevented (by ill health) from attending the Council Meetings, had been promoted to Glory from Australia early that morning.

The promoted leader became an Officer from Western Australia, and served in New Zealand and also at the International Training College. He was a Chaplain to Australian forces during the first world war, and before his last command was Chief Secretary for Australia South.

Memorable Meeting

Inspiring Day of Devotion at Sunbury Court

THE members of the High Council attended three devotional gatherings at Sunbury Court on Sunday, May 5. All thoughts of business were set aside. The spontaneity, simplicity and definiteness of testimonies to conversion and sanctification contributed to a day which will remain unique in the minds of all present (states Lieut.-Commissioner Henry G. Bowyer, South Africa).

It being Mothers' Day in the United Kingdom, the glory and power of motherhood were emphasized, not only by verbal tributes, but also by the presence of the members themselves who almost without exception owed the quickening of their first spiritual impulses to their mothers.

Tribute was paid by a Territorial Commander who held in his hands a Bible given by his mother. Another told how, following his recent arrival in England, he visited the old home where he first knelt in prayer at his mother's knee. Indelibly impressed upon the mind of another Commissioner was the memory of his parents' going to their first Corps Command with their two children, and of his mother sewing red braid upon his father's tunic collar.

None present will soon forget Commissioner John Allan telling of his mother, who as a young girl of seventeen years of age, at a time of crisis heard a small company of Salvationists singing, "What a Friend we have in Jesus." This Friend became her Friend. Poorly equipped educationally, but mightily equipped by the Holy Spirit, she was sent forth by the Founder as an Officer. Beaten for Christ's sake, and rescued by the one who became her life partner, her last words to her boy continue as a motivating power in his life.

The Bible expositions of Commissioner Ernest Pugmire, Lieut.-Commissioner Ogrim and Commissioner William Dalziel, contributed in no small measure to the value of this memorable day.

THE NOMINATIONS

ON Tuesday afternoon, May 7, a statement signed by Commissioner Frank Dyer was issued to the effect that the following nominations had been received and accepted:

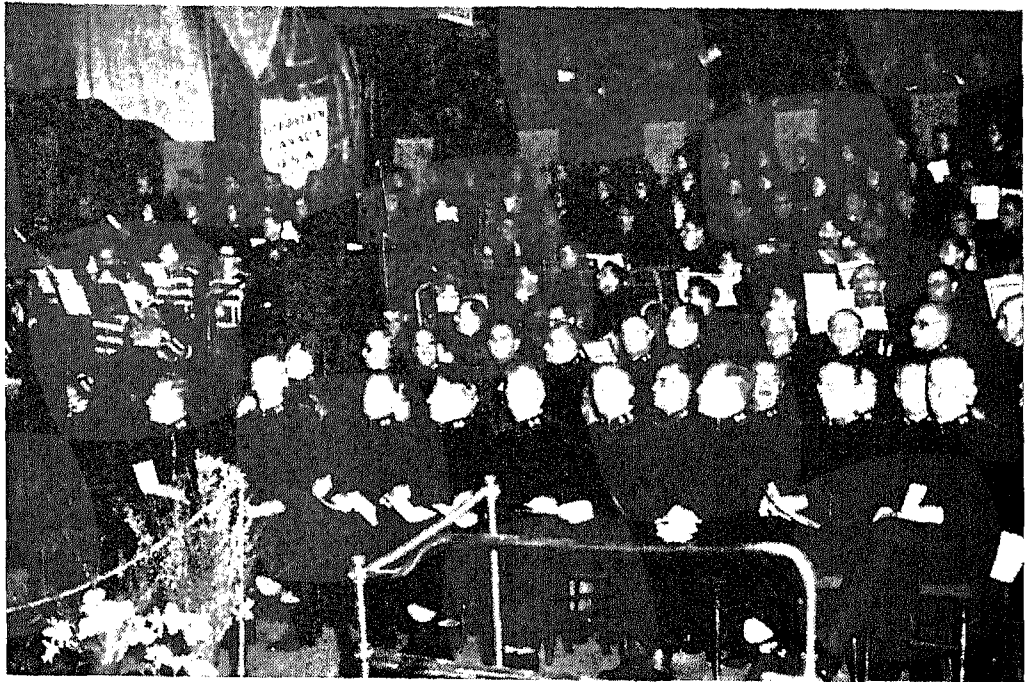

Commissioner Frank Barrett, Commissioner Chas. Baugh, Commissioner Catherine Bramwell-Booth, Commissioner Wm. Dalziel, Commissioner Wm. Maxwell, Lieut.-Commissioner Norman Marshall, Commissioner Benjamin Oram, Commissioner Albert Orsborn.

The following were also nominated, but intimated their desire not to stand for election:

IN THE MANSION HOUSE

General and Mrs. Carpenter and High Council Members Welcomed by the Lord Mayor of London

ONE of the most picturesque and significant scenes associated with the 1946 High Council occurred in the stately Reception Hall of London's Mansion House on Monday evening, May 6.

Following an official welcome by the Lord Mayor and the Lady Mayoress and conversation with distinguished guests, Lieut.-Commissioner W. D. Davey (Public Relations) asked the Members of the High Council to join him in a song. He immediately struck up, to a piano chord from Commissioner R. Astbury, "O happy day that fixed my choice!"

The General and Mrs. Carpenter and the forty-seven members of the Council stood in a circle around the Lord Mayor and they sang, in familiar "open-air ring" formation, with unrestrained fervor. With Lieut.-Commissioner Tobias Ogrim, Commissioner Ernest Pugmire, Commissioner Phillis Taylor.

The nominations announced were made, according to the agreed procedure, by Members of the High Council, any of whom could nominate any other member.

The nominations were handed in unsigned and announced by the President of the High Council, who shortly afterward authorized the issuing of the Press bulletin.

Following declarations of willingness or otherwise to stand, the eight candidates answered questions and made their nomination addresses.

many putting in harmonies, their deep, practised voices rang out in the joyous declaration:

'Tis done, the great transaction's done!

I am my Lord's and He is mine.

The Lord Mayor, standing with arms folded and thoroughly enjoying the unusual episode, joined in the refrain:

Happy day! When Jesus washed my sins away.

The City of London gold plate, placed on view in honor of the Salvationist visitors, gleamed in the background. The blue carpet, the tall cream pillars and lofty walls of the apartment and the paintings of historic scenes surrounding the singers made a unique setting for this concerted witness. It was followed by a chorus which had no doubt been of great strength to the High Council members during the taxing days in session:

Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace

Whose mind is stayed on Thee.

When this deep-throated declaration died away the General, standing beside the Lord Mayor in the circle of leaders, spoke in quiet tones of the privilege given to "these men and women from all parts of the world" of assembling in the centre of the life of the great city of London to make their witness. He recalled that it was from the near-at-hand East End of London that William Booth and his

Army had gone "to the east ends of the world."

"We feel," he said, "that the new world for which men look will only be made by new men and women and that men and women can only be made anew by a personal and vital religion."

Admitting that he had at times attended Army meetings, the Lord Mayor spoke in a brief cordial reply of his pleasure at the presence in the Mansion House of so many Salvation Army leaders. He welcomed them on behalf of the citizens of London, "the great bulk of whom are behind you in your great work."

Territorial Commander Visits Scenes of Canadian Red Shield Effort

ALMOST as soon as he arrived in the United Kingdom, the Territorial Commander, Commissioner B. Oram, set off on a hurried visit to European battlefields, including France, Belgium, Holland and Germany and places where Canadian Red Shield Supervisors and workers operated with such excellent efficiency.

A number of other High Council members also paid visits to centres of Salvation Army interest.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S NEW GOVERNOR

Requests Divisional Commander To Convey Greetings to Island Salvationists

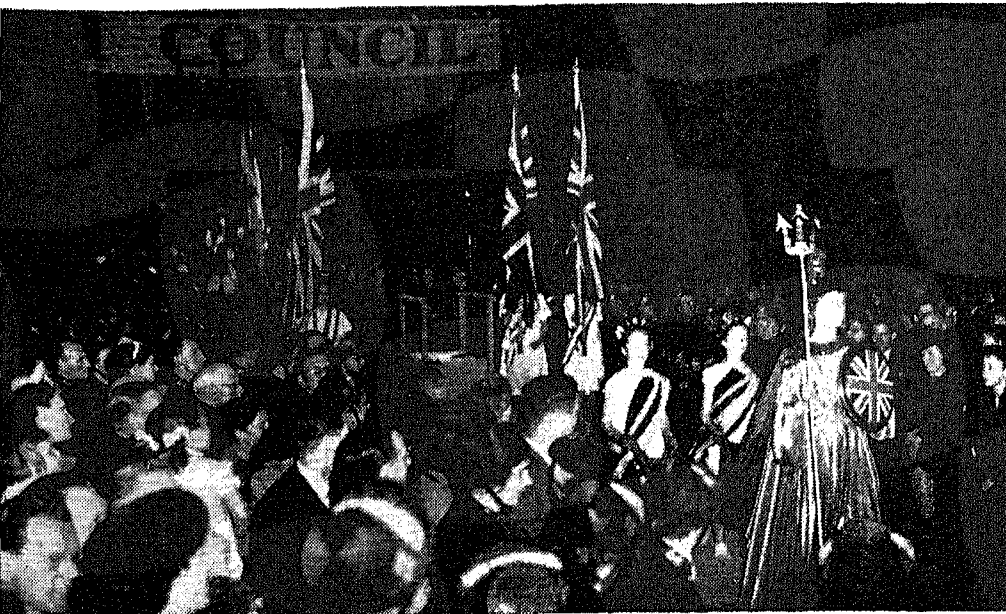

THE Divisional Commander for Newfoundland, Major C. D. Wiseman, recently received an invitation from Government House, St. John's, to meet privately the new Governor of Newfoundland, Sir Gordon Macdonald, K.C.M.G.

In the course of a lengthy conversation the Governor praised the work of The Salvation Army and spoke admiringly of the staunch religious motives that activate its work. He made inquiries regarding the scope of the work in Newfoundland, requested the Major to convey his personal greetings to the Salvationists of the country, and stressed the need for men with strong Christian convictions for key positions in the country's affairs.

Sir Gordon Macdonald has been a prominent lay preacher in the Congregational Church in Liverpool, England.

NOTES

The Red Shield Women's Auxiliary

PORT CREDIT, Ont.: The Territorial Red Shield Women's Auxiliary Secretary, Mrs. Lieut.-Colonel Dray, and Mrs. Envoy McKay, recently had the pleasure of attending the Overseas Helpers' Club meeting at Port Credit. None of the clubs forty-nine members is a Salvationist, but no group anywhere in Canada is more enthusiastic. Mrs. Marsh, the president, has given splendid leadership for two years, and is loud in her praise of the group's accomplishments.

Meetings are held in the homes of the members, each one in turn. Sewing machines were buzzing, and hand sewers were busy putting finishing touches on garments ready for the Spring Tea Display.

Work was halted for just a few moments while Mrs. Dray thanked Retired Officers to whom Mrs. Colonel Adby (R) has given leadership all through the war years. It is worthy of mention here that this group worked Tuesdays and Thursdays for about four years, and are not weary yet, but are now turning their attention to clothing for Europe. We were delighted to see Mrs. Major Spearing among the number; she has been far from well for some time. We also pay tribute here to the fine service rendered for such a long period by Mrs. Colonel G. W. Peacock (R), and by Mrs. Lieut.-Colonel Keith, now of Vancouver. A group composed of church women have made a worthwhile contribution serving at the Centre every Wednesday.

We gratefully salute, on this occasion, the group of women responthe women for their devotion and service and presented each member with the voluntary service pin. The Spring Tea was held on the following Thursday and each member wore her pin with a good deal of pride and joy. Approximately 150 women visited the display and $107 was raised to finance the future program.

It was refreshing to hear Mrs. Marsh ask, "When the War Services Department closes up, is there some other branch of Salvation Army work that could use the garments we sew from time to time?" Sincere thanks to Mrs. Marsh and her competent workers. This shipment contains: 80 children's quilts, 18 large quilts, 30 children's sweaters, and a host of other lovely garments.

TORONTO CENTRE: A transformation took place in the workroom of the Centre Wednesday of this week. Instead of the inspecting, tagging and bundling of garments for Europe, the room became an attractive meeting place where sixty women met for the presentation of the volunteer service pins. The proceedings were presided over by the Territorial R.S.W.A. Secretary, Mrs. Lieut.-Colonel Dray, and the women heartily joined in the singing. A group of non-Salvationists, under the leadership of Mrs. Major Johnson, who have given loyal service at the Centre and at the Exhibition Mending Room were present.

Also present was the group of sible for selling approximately $5,500 worth of War Saving Stamps over a period of two years.

Mrs. Colonel L. Taylor (R), representing the Retired Officers, and Mrs. Graham, speaking for the non-Salvationists, told of their appreciation for the opportunity of service in the past, and pledged continued interest and service.

The Chief Secretary, Colonel Layman, an appreciated visitor, thanked the women for a job well done and presented each worker with the volunteer service pin. The War Services Secretary, Lieut.-Colonel Wm. Dray, who introduced the Chief Secretary, also thanked the women for services rendered. Mrs. Dray spoke of the honor it was to have leadership of such a group of women, and appealed for continued service, remarking that the service pins were not "discharge buttons." Songster Mrs. Murray sang, prayer was offered by Mrs. Adby, and the Scripture portion was read by Mrs. Major Johnson.

An Essential in the Home

THRIFT is an essential to the making of a happy home, especially in these post-war days when it is difficult for low-income families to make ends meet.

What is thrift? It is the opposite to waste. It is the knowledge put into practice of what to spend and upon what to spend, when to save and upon what to save.

Thrift is to economize all the time, so that you may live comfortably within your means. If you can't afford fruit and vegetables when they first come in season, don't consult your taste but your purse, as you must also about petty furnishings for your house, presents for your friends and attractive and expensive clothes.

The thrifty woman goes to a store knowing what she can spend and buys within that sum. Her neighbour, always in debt, always buys what she likes at the moment, regardless of the fact that a smart blouse may be hiding a ragged undergarment.

During the war, food shortage and enormous prices, working women could be seen carrying baskets of dear provisions and wearing expensive coats. The huge wages earned in those days were spent at the moment by many wives—no thrift, no saving, and these people, when high war wages ceased, fell into poverty.

They might have saved enough to produce comfortable little incomes. The people with the small fixed incomes, who had to scrape and screw and go without new clothes to meet higher prices and heavy income tax, are now recovering themselves.

The knowledge of the worth and worthlessness of money should be taught the children.

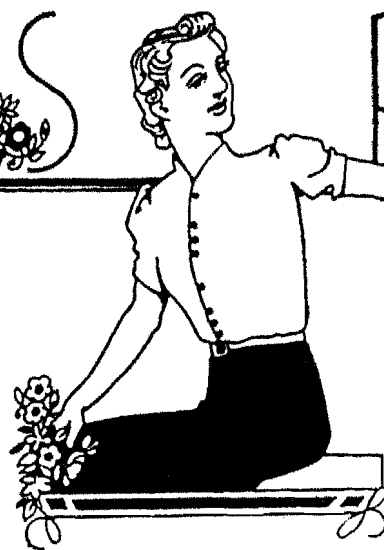

It is a good plan, even if you receive housekeeping money by the month or quarter, for the woman of small allowance who wants to live within it, to set aside the weekly sum. The housekeeper should know how much her butcher, baker and milkman's weekly accounts usually are and leave that untouched, with the balance for groceries, till the day for settling bills. The grocer should be paid ready money last, regulating purchases by cash in hand left, as the other bills may vary a trifle.

When this part of the weekly allowance is put aside, you should have something in hand for extra odds and ends that always come in a household—fish, or vegetables and fruit, washing if partly put out, etc.

Always aim to have some of your allowance to the good in the week. Put this on one side and use for replacement of kitchen utensils, mats, brushes.

The thrifty woman will learn to make money by saving expense. She can save much by the knowledge of how to adjust electric light or gas, put washers on leaking taps, do odd carpentering jobs, etc.

It takes all a woman's cleverness if she would produce fine results for thought and patience and method, self-denial, planning and contrivance are all in constant demand in thrift.

GOING GOD'S WAY

IARISE to-day, equipped and fortified to meet life's problems with:

God's strength to pilot me,
God's wisdom to guide me.
God's eye to look before me.
God's ear to hear me.
God's word to speak for me.
God's hand to guard me.
God's way to life before me.
God's shield to protect me.
God's host to save me.

MEANING OF MARGARET

MARGARET signifies "A Pearl." This is the English and Scottish form of the very beautiful name which has remained a firm favorite through many centuries. It originated from the Persian word "Muri," meaning "Pearl," or "Daughter of Light."

There is a lovely old Eastern legend which declares that pearls are drops of moonlit water received into shells of the oyster when they rise each night from their ocean bed to worship the moon. When they sink to the depths of the sea once more these radiant drops harden into shining pearls. Certainly the silvery sheen of the pearl carries out this pretty story.

When used in its alternative form, "Pearl," it becomes one of the "Jewel Names," and its meaning then is "Innocence." In France this name is used as Marguerite, which gives us our pet diminutive "Daisy," with the meaning of "Innocence"; the pearl and the little white flower having identical signification, Margery, Margot, and Margarita are other forms.

ly letters and also the War Cry received. She says, "I received the Easter War Cry and I have read every word of it." She manages to visit The Army occasionally and says, "I love the beautiful choruses The Army sings, and it is wonderful to listen to the Band."

It is noticed that during recent weeks Mrs. Major Merrett, Saskatchewan; and Mrs. Major Falle, Bermuda, have been "getting around." Mrs. Falle mentions "Cottage meetings" held by her Home Leagues, which sounds rather interesting.

The Territorial Home League Secretary presided at the Riverdale gatherings and was pleased to take part in the Home League Sunday meetings at Earlscourt and East Toronto. Mrs. Staff-Captain Weeks, R. (Home League Secre-

TWICE RESCUED

A WEALTHY family in England (many years ago) took their children for a holiday in the country. Their host toured over his estate for a week-end. The children went swimming in a pool. One of the boys began to drown, and the other boys screamed for help. The son of the gardener jumped in and rescued the helpless one. Later the grateful parents asked the gardener what they could do for the youthful hero. The gardener said his son wanted to go to college. "He wants to be a doctor," he said. The visitors shook hands on that. "We'll be glad to pay his way through," they told him.

When Winston Churchill was stricken with pneumonia (after the Teheran conference) the King of England instructed that the best doctor be found to save the Prime Minister. The doctor turned out to be Dr. Fleming, the developer of penicillin. "Rarely," said Churchill to Fleming, "has one man owed his life twice to the same rescuer." It was Fleming who saved Churchill in that pool.

Have you pondered the infinitely greater "Rescue" by the Son of Nazareth's lowly carpenter?

NEGLECT NOT YOUR BIBLE

THE great musician, Paderewski, said that if he did not practice for one day he noticed it himself, if he did not practice for two days his instructor would notice it, and if he did not practice for three days his audience would notice it.

If we neglect our Bibles we will suffer the consequences immediately, and no doubt those about us will notice it also before many days or weeks have slipped by.

tary, Earlscourt) is an active worker, and one wonders how she manages to keep up all her activities. A special sale is planned during Home League Week to be opened by Mrs. Saunders, wife of Toronto's Mayor, the proceeds being devoted to the Earlscourt Band Fund.

At East Toronto in the evening service a number of Home League members directed by Mrs. Major Batten sweetly sang a new song composed recently by Mrs. Major Alder for the Home League. The East Toronto League is an active and progressive body, the Local Officers and members working together with good will and energy for the many projects in hand.

It is hoped that the special efforts put forth in connection with Home League Week will result in a forward move generally.

We are very pleased to have copies of "The Home League Challenge" from Mrs. Lieut.-Colonel Ursaki, London-Windsor Division, also a Divisional Home League Newsletter from Mrs. Major Dixon, New Brunswick Division. It is good to note from the former, that the London I Home League is having a shower for a British bride.

HOME LEAGUE NOTES

By the Territorial Secretary, Brigadier A. Fairhurst

RIVERDALE was the rendezvous of fifteen of the Toronto East Division Home Leagues recently. Apart from the Toronto Leagues of this Division, Whitby, Uxbridge, Bowmanville and Oshawa were represented.

In the afternoon the Territorial President addressed the Local Officers, who, with the Corps Officers and visiting Officers made a goodly company. Mrs. Colonel Layman has had long and interesting experience in Home League work, not only as a leader, but for many years as a member of San Francisco Central League where an efficient Home League, with widely-diversified activities, operates. She can, therefore, approach Home League matters with new and interesting ideas.

During the afternoon Mrs. Major Howlett read a challenging paper on the part Home Leagues play in present world conditions. A vocal solo from Mrs. Brigadier Mundy preceded Mrs. Layman's spiritual message. Mrs. Lieut.-Colonel Best also assisted during the meetings. Special mention was made of the willing and faithful assistance rendered by many T.H.Q. Officers' wives in conducting monthly spiritual Home League meetings in Toronto.

The supper served by the Riverdale Home League was enjoyed by those present, including the Chief Secretary and the Divisional Commander. The women who prepared it deserve much credit for overcoming difficulties, as the water, dishes and so forth have to be carried up and down a long flight of stairs. The Hall was crowded out for the night meeting. The help of North Toronto Band and Danforth Songsters was greatly appreciated, and the singing of Songster Mrs. Murray was a blessing to all. The euphonium solos of Lieutenant Beulah Payton were warmly received, and of course, the sketches and items given by the League of East Toronto, Riverdale and Oshawa were greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Layman brought a helpful message during the evening.

Credit is due the Divisional Home League Secretary, Mrs. Brigadier Newman, who had put in a great deal of planning and work to make the Rally a real success. Her slogan could well be adopted by others: "A Bigger, Better and Brighter Home League," and the Toronto Division is well started on the road to this goal.

She Led Them To New Usefulness

Major Annie Mabb Enters Honorable Retirement After Many Years of Devoted Service to the Helpless and Hopeless

A WIDELY-KNOWN and highly-respected Officer, Major Annie Mabb, whose selfless service for many years in the Women's Social Service Department at various points, and whose wide Field experience previous to that brought her into close touch with many lives, recently retired from Active Service.

Entering Honorable Retirement, Major Mabb can look back upon thirty-six years of cheerfully given Salvation service which began when she entered Training from Sherbourne, Eng., serving thereafter at such centres on the British Field as Neston, Colwyn Bay, Liverpool XI, Newtown, L'Islet and Lytchett.

Transferring to the Canadian Field, Major Mabb served in such Ontario centres as Dunnville, Haileybury, North Bay, Brock Ave., and Peterboro Temple. A number of Corps commands followed including Kingsville, Owen Sound, Kingston and Brantford, before her transfer to Territorial Headquarters and her subsequent appointment as Toronto Police Court Officer for Women.

This last-named type of work enabled the Major to follow down many needy persons whom she always considered more than "cases." For her efforts she was well repaid, and had the great joy of leading many to Christ as well as to lives of new usefulness. Her next appointment was in charge of the Toronto Receiving Home, which preceded a term as Police Court Officer at Peterborough. The Major's first contact with Western Canada came when appointed to Social Service Work in Edmonton, Alta., where useful years were spent before moving to her last appointment, in charge of the Sunset Lodge at Winnipeg, from which responsible position it was necessary for the Major to go on sick furlough.

Her comrades will pray for the blessing of God to be richly upon the Major's retirement during which, it is certain, she will, as she did throughout her whole career, actively avail herself of every opportunity to help and encourage others.

VETERAN CANADIAN OFFICER

Laid to Rest in Pasadena, Calif.
By Canadian Comrades

A FORMER Canadian Officer, out of Ingersoll, Ont., Mrs. Brigadier A. Macdonald, R. (nee Gertie Gibbs), was promoted to Glory recently from South Pasadena, California, where she had been living in retirement with her son, Dr. Ian Macdonald, also well-known to Canadian Salvationists.

Never very robust physically, Mrs. Macdonald and her husband (promoted to Glory in 1935), gave valuable service throughout Canada. Corps included Guelph, Victoria, Edmonton, Toronto Temple, Ottawa, London, and Montreal Citadel, and later as Divisional leaders in the Maritimes and Montreal and Hamilton Divisions.

The funeral service was conducted by Lieut.-Colonel R. Clarke and Lieut.-Colonel W. White and was participated in by several comrade Officers, including Lieut.-Commissioner G. Davis (R), Colonel and Mrs. Wm. Barker (R), Lieut.-Colonel Wm. Dart (R), and Adjutant A. Telfer, all of whom have had Canadian contacts.

SALVATIONIST CENTENARIANS

Join the Heavenly Throng

TWO Salvationists over a hundred years old have been promoted to Glory. Brother Frederick Drewitt, of Waltham Abbey, lived to be 102. He was converted at the age of ninety-five. Born in Croydon, England, when it was a village, he became an exhibition boxer, travelling the country as a fair attraction. He remembered seeing and being impressed by the Christian Mission, but not until after the death of his wife did the desires of his youth become dominant.

When a hundred and one years old he attended an open-air meeting, and sang as a solo "I am so glad that our Father in Heaven" on his 101st birthday.

Sister Mrs. Belin, promoted to Glory from Forchies, Belgium, was 101 years old. Five generations of her family were present at the funeral, led by Lieut.-Colonel Vanderkam (Leader), at which Bandmen of the Corps in the Charleroi district provided music.

The Cadets' Dedication Service will be conducted by the Chief Secretary, Colonel A. Layman, in the afternoon at 3 p.m.

MISSIONARY REINFORCEMENTS

Canadian Officers Leave For Service in Rhodesia

TWO further contributions to The Army's Missionary Effort is being made by the Canadian Territory which, to judge by the number of Officers from the Land of the Maple already serving in foreign fields, is assuredly Missionary-minded.

Adjutant Edith Jater, a registered nurse who has given devoted service for many years in the Women's Social Service Department, and Lieutenant Edgar Deering, a Newfoundland Officer, who has youth and energy on his side, are now en route to Rhodesia, which needy area of Army activity will give them a hearty welcome while presenting challenging opportunities.

Canadian Salvationists will pray that these Officers may be granted travelling mercies and God's choicest blessing in their new spheres of labor.

NEW EXPERIENCES

ONE hundred Easter War Crys were sold in the residential section by Calgary Citadel Corps Cadets on a recent Tuesday evening. One young man was so enthusiastic that he went without his supper, but after selling about thirty-five War Crys, found that it was worth it.

Young comrades met with many new experiences, and one met with a surprise when a dozen or more Pekinese puppies rushed out of the house. A few dogs were encountered during the evening, but their bark was always worse than their bite. One young enthusiast had a hard job deciding whether she was a peddler or an agent, but even such signs didn't stop them.

SWEDEN'S NEW EDITOR

Canadian Salvationists will be interested to learn that Brigadier Gosta Blomberg, who accompanied General and Mrs. Carpenter during their visits to the Dominion, has been appointed Editor-in-Chief of The Army's publications in Sweden.

BANDS and BRIGADES IN ACTION

HANDEL'S OWN HAND

MUSICIANS, whether vocalists or instrumentalists, will be interested in No. 8 of the Harrow Replicas, a remarkable series of reproductions, which make available by photography the originals of early manuscripts.

This latest addition gives modern musicians access to four portions of the "Messiah," just as they left the hands of Handel. Here are the scores, with the deletions, emendations and improvements, including what seems to be some blots made by the thumb of the great composer. A careful scrutiny will remind an observer of the remarkably short time (twenty-four days) the author took to produce the work and also of his use of a quill pen.

Perhaps the most interesting selection is that of the "Hallelujah" Chorus. . . . These centuries-old manuscripts, published by W. Heffer & Sons, Cambridge, England, are reproduced under the encouragement of Mr. Sydney Walton, C.B.E., Harrow literary man and art lover.—From The British Weekly.

WARNING!

We would remind our Musicians that the arrangement of music other than that authorized by the International Music Board is a breach of Regulations, and may be an infringement of copyright. All Salvation Army music is copyright, and may not be altered or arranged in any way, even by Salvationists.

CHORISTERS' WHEREABOUTS

The Chicago Staff Choristers, whose Empire Week-end visit to the Lisgar Street Corps was announced in last week's issue of The War Cry, will be heard in the Harbord Collegiate for the Saturday night and Sunday afternoon festivals, the Sunday night Salvation meeting also being held in the same commodious auditorium. The Holiness meeting will be held in the Lisgar Street Citadel.

Platform scene in the Cincinnati Citadel shows the North Toronto Citadel Band during a great Festival of Praise. Major R. Watt, the Bandmaster, is in the centre of the group. At the extreme left are Major H. Zealley, the Divisional Commander, and Adjutant D. Moulton, the Corps Officer, who arranged the visit.

"The Trumpets Are Sounding"

A brilliant fanfare of welcome by trumpeters of the Lewisham Band signalled the entry to the Royal Albert Hall, London, Eng., of High Council members who were tumultuously greeted during the great Pageant of Nations (See also page 16)

In the City of the Seven Hills

North Toronto Citadel Band Visits Cincinnati, Ohio, and Crosses the Broad-flowing Ohio Into Kentucky

MAKING a swift, overnight rail journey from one Queen City to another, the North Toronto Citadel Band (Major Robert Watt) arrived in Cincinnati, Ohio, for a crowded and conquering three days' activity in the Buckeye State.

From the moment the Bandsmen emerged into Cincinnati's superbly modern depot, until they left the City of Seven Hills, the entire campaign was one of International and Salvation reciprocity. In return for opportunities for Salvation service, generous American hospitality, and glorious weather (almost a month advanced in the eyes of the visitors), the Bandsmen gave richly of their musical and spiritual store. Not only the Citadel Corps (Adjutant and Mrs. Dave Moulton, Captain Doris Howells) which sponsored the visit, but indeed the progressive city itself felt, when the time came for farewells, as though the Band "belonged."

At the Catherine Booth Hospital, Major Spath and staff provided generously at a welcome breakfast when the high purposes of the visit were stressed. At noon, in a solemn gathering, thoughtfully guided by the Divisional Commander, Major Harold Zealley, the Band made its first appearance. Music of the Cross with solos by Songster Mrs. D.

Murray, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Major Watt, aided in the contemplation of the tragedy and triumph of Calvary. Adjutant Arnold Brown gave the address.

With motor-cycle escort and dense semi-holiday crowds lining the sidewalks, the Band marched to the Fountain Square, at which central and historic spot an afternoon festival was played to a large listening audience.

At the Men's Social Service Centre a cheering program was provided for the men, and supper, kindly provided by Major and Mrs. Paul Harvey, was enjoyed.

For the evening festival in the Citadel, crowded to capacity for the event, Dr. Carlos S. Schott, Chairman of the Advisory Board, brought greetings and presented the Divisional Commander as chairman. The varied program earned warmest commendation.

A Saturday morning bus drive through lovely Ohio countryside and bustling urban centres brought the Band to Plaquemine, where, with Adjutant Vernon Post as host, the Band lunched in the Elks' Hall as guests of the local Advisory Board.

Quite familiar with Salvation Army aims and ministries, but not so familiar with Army Bands of such size and calibre, citizens of Plaquemine assembled in great crowds at the Square, where, sheltered from the brilliant sun by wide-spreading trees, the Band provided an outdoor festival of music.

Later, at Middleton, Adjutant Ken. Sharpe, the Corps Officer, entertained the Band to supper in the leading hotel. Short moments later the Band was on the march to the Roosevelt Junior High School where an interested crowd had gathered. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Slimmonds, the Divisional Commander again happily piloting proceedings.

Noted Conductor

Spotlight event on the program was the presence of Dr. Frank Simon, noted band leader and cornet virtuoso, who conducted with vivacity and evident enjoyment the favorite march, "Dovercourt Citadel." Dr. Simon paid public compliment to the playing of the Band and emphasized the ennobling influences of good music. This feature was one of the week-end thrills for the visiting Bandsmen.

On Sunday, at Eden Park, an inter-denominational sunrise service attracted a tremendous crowd of citizens, the Band providing the music for the impressive service. No sooner had the service ended than the Band was whirled away, over the broad-flowing Ohio River and into the State of Kentucky where, by courtesy of the superintendent, Major Alvena Wood, and the staff of the Wm. Booth Hospital at Covington, the Bandsmen were given a holiday breakfast, later playing to the patients while the male voice party went from ward to ward. A group of Bands-

The Holiness meeting was conducted by Major Cyril Smith, the North Toronto Corps Officer, who also led the Salvation meeting, being assisted by a group of Bandsmen who found it possible to remain after the departure of the Band. These gatherings were rich in helpfulness.

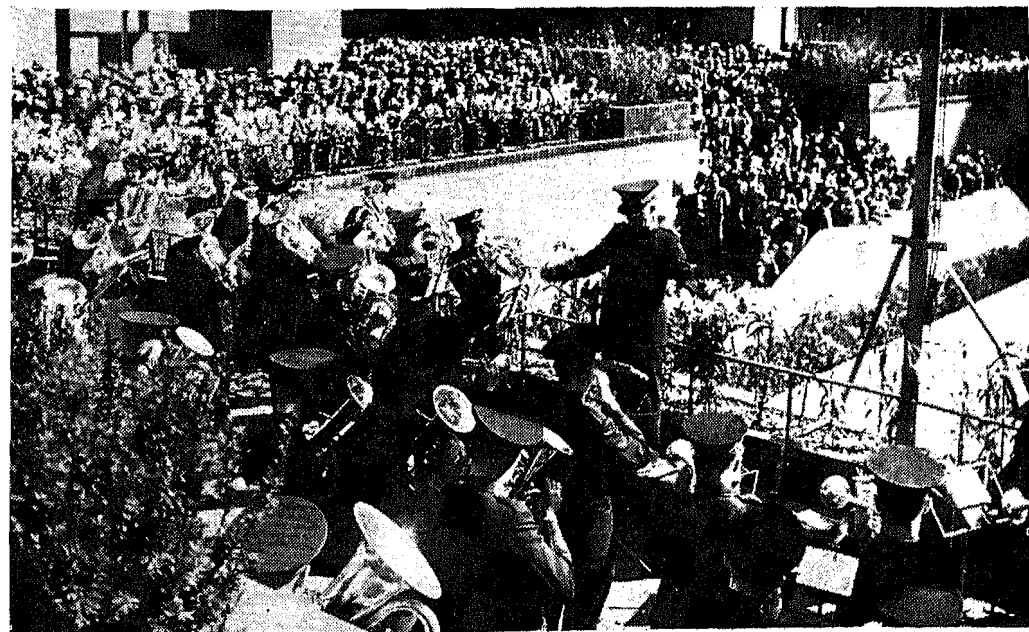

For lunch the Bandsmen were guests of the Divisional staff whose co-operation was evident throughout the campaign. Finale of the week-end was a musical program at the Eden Park bandstand, numbers of listeners greatly appreciating the brilliant and varied program. Presiding was Mr. Ernest Glover, the well-known trombonist and assistant to Dr. Frank Simon, who capably wielded the baton during the playing of "Star Lake" march and the "Hallelujah" Chorus.
